About UT 2025

On behalf of the IEEE International Symposium on Underwater Technology 2025, the UT 2025 Committee welcomes sponsors and exhibitors to Taipei at The Grand Hotel.

The UT symposium series, with its inaugural event in 1998, has been a resounding success, fostering information exchange among researchers in Asia and the Pacific Rim. This series has expanded our international reach and fostered camaraderie among engineers and scientists from various areas. We firmly believe in the power of face-to-face discussions and interactions in fostering collaborative efforts, a principle that has been the cornerstone of our symposium's success.

This symposium is organized by the IEEE/OES, its Taipei Chapter, and the Japan Chapter, and the National Taiwan University. It is sponsored by the National Science Council ROC and the Taiwan Marine Robotics Association. UT 2025 consists of three days of technical presentations and keynote speeches in fields that include acoustics, signal processing, positioning, observation, vehicle technology, robotics, construction, ocean energy, and bio-related technology for underwater applications. Attendees will enjoy technical topics and exhibitions of the latest commercial products.
